DP&L to ask 13 pct. electric rate boost

The Dayton Power and Light Co. announced Friday it plans to file a request with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) a request for a 13.6 per cent increase in retail electric rates.

The application will be filed with the PUCO this fall.

The company cited inflationary costs, up in some instances by over 80 per cent, and additional investments in electric plant facilities, as the reasons for seeking the rate hike.

The 13.6 per cent request will include an 8.1 per cent increase denied in the case heard this past spring.

Under the new Ohio rate law, if the PUCO does not reach a final decision within nine months after the filing of the application, the new rates may be placed into effect, subject to refund with interest, on July 1, 1977 at the earliest.

"If everyone in our region is to continue having electricity when they need it, there is simply no way to hold off initiating this rate request now," said George Winkle, manager of the Washington C.H. district DP&L office at a press conference held here Friday.

"Increased costs of construction, financing, fuel, operating expenses, and higher taxes along with delays in processing previous rate applications, have added additional costs amounting to millions of dollars," Winkle said.

"The energy needs of this region — for jobs and homes and farms — will only be met if DP&L can achieve a stable financial condition with sufficient revenues," he added.

Winkle said "DP&L has done its best to hold the line on costs but charges for items ranging from trucks and poles to wire and transformers have skyrocketed. Not only have equipment costs increased, but investment in environmental costs have been enormous and are expected to become an even greater factor, reaching 25 per cent of the cost of a new unit. Environmental equipment helps clean up our air and water and does not generate one additional kilowatt hour of electricity for people," he noted.

Municipal officials are being notified today of DP&L's decision to seek the rate increase, since the law now requires that they be informed at least 90 days prior to the filing of the application with the PUCO.

The electric rate application, when filed, will request $38.1 million of additional annual revenues. Monthly residential electric bills would increase 200 kilowatt hours 65 cents; 400 kilowatt hours, $1.87; 750 kilowatt hours, $3.99, and 4,000 kilowatt hours, $15.61.

Because of the new rate base law, DP&L also gave notice today to municipal officials of its intent to refile the gas and steam rate requests filed in January and February of this year.

The following factors are responsible for increasing costs of electric service, according to the company:

Inflation — The inflation rate increased 8.8 per cent in 1973; 12.2 per cent in 1974, and seven per cent in 1975.

Environmental expenditures — A total of $28 million was spent in 1974 and 1975. Approximately 25 per cent of the cost of a new generating station is for environmental equipment.

Construction costs — The cost of building a generating station was $163 per kilowatt in 1973, and $238 per kilowatt in 1975, up 45 per cent in two years.

Financing costs — Interest payments and other financing costs to pay for facilities were $60 million in 1975, up 35 per cent in two years.

Fuel costs — The price of coal has more than doubled from $10.42 per ton in 1973 to $21.99 per ton in 1975.

New facilities — Since 1973 over $136 million in new facilities have been placed in service. In 1975 these new facilities produced 18 per cent of DP&L consumers' electric needs. The greater efficiency of this equipment saved consumers over $16 million in fuel charges in 1975.

Altrusa Club planning historical sites tour

The Washington C.H. Altrusa Club is arranging an historical tour of Fayette County to be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 11. The public is invited.

Headquarters for the tour will be at either the Fayette County Court House or the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, according to Mrs. June Slaughter.

Places of significant historical interest were selected for the tour. The historic Archibald Willard Murals, the Fayette County Common Pleas Courtroom and other features of the court house will be explained to those participating in the tour. At the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, the box pews and the structure of the building is of interest.

In Marian Moore's home at 501 E. Market St., paintings in living room, believed to have been done by Willard, may be viewed. The structure of the old brick home of William Pool, 317 Cherry St., with the use of squares and arches will be noteworthy to the tourists.

On the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Miller, 394 White Road, an old round barn constructed by Humphrey Jones around the turn of the century will be open for viewing.

The old Fairview School on the Eyman Farm will be opened. Kenneth Craig, president of the Fayette County Historical Society, will be at the school and will give tourists a historical sketch of Fayette County which he has prepared.

Punch and cookies will be served by Altrusa Club members at the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church and at the Pool home.

Youth suffering from rare skin disease

Family centers hopes on Oregon

By CINDI PEARCE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

MOUNT STERLING — One night last October, 13-year-old Bobby Miller was awakened by what he thought was an insect bite.

He summoned his mother who checked the area on his leg which had been the target of the insect. She found nothing despite Bobby's insistence that he had been bitten by something.

The youth complained of a prickly sensation and two days later the area on Bobby's leg began to harden and discolor. The size of the affected area was comparable to the diameter of a pancake and felt like hardened scar tissue.

Jim and Betty Williams, 199 New St., Bobby's parents, didn't know what was causing the prickly sensation or what had caused the sudden birthmark-like appearance. The Williams began their rounds, going from one physician to another, until Bobby's disease was finally diagnosed as scleroderma.

Bobby and his parents are leaving today for the Medical Research Foundation Center in Portland, Ore., which is one of the few centers in the U.S. devoting much of its time to scleroderma research.

Mrs. Williams, who appeared relatively composed considering that she only learned Wednesday that Bobby was to be at the research center by July 7, said that she didn't have any idea how long they would remain in Oregon.

"Originally, I made an appointment for Bobby at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota for July 25, but we learned that the Oregon Medical Research Foundation Center uses this drug called DMSO, whereas the Mayo Clinic doesn't, so I cancelled the former appointment. I tried numerous times to get Bobby's admission set up, and finally succeeded. At first, he will be treated on an out-patient basis because the center is full," Mrs. Williams said.

To look at Bobby, you'd never know that he is sick. He's active, saying that the only thing that bothers him is when he bumps one of the sensitive areas on his body that have been invaded by the disease. The patches, which could be mistaken for pigmentation, have spread to various parts of his body in just a matter of months.

Scleroderma, which is usually a disease found in unsuspecting middle-aged women, is an enigma. Most physicians know little about the skin disease. According to the research foundation, the disease is in most cases chronic in nature, involving localized, or as in Bobby's case, widespread areas of skin. In some sufferers, involvement of the internal organs is noted. Thus far, no hereditary factors have been noted.

The disease itself is not painful and the onset of symptoms is usually a gradual process beginning with swelling, discoloration or minimal hardness of the skin. As the disease progresses through months or years without remission or reaching a plateau, the skin changes in appearance, becoming smooth and shiny. Hardening progresses and mobility is restricted.

Mrs. Williams, who has been doing lot of research on the disease since discovering that her son was a victim, said that no one knows the cause of the disease, adding, "The disease can afflict children and aged persons, but is more commonly seen in the middle aged."

Mrs. Williams, who was employed at Orient State Institute, said that her co-workers started a fund for Bobby and that the Mount Sterling Jaycees have started a fund for the youth's medical costs.

NUMBER ONE, MEET NUMBER TWO — Washington C. H. City Manager George Shapter, left, the highest paid city employee, met Number Two when he arrived at the city building Friday. The new arrival, an IBM System 32 computer, is the second most costly "employee" in the office. Lease of the computer will cost some $17,500 per year, but it will become everyone's "right hand man." The computer will not only figure sewer bills and income tax returns, but will also keep the city revenue and expenditure ledger, record parking meter tickets and fine payments. It is also expected to eventually keep Municipal Court records in its electronic head. Raldon Smith, right, a veteran computer analyst, estimates the computer will save the city $20,000 annually.

200th birthday celebration held

Nation notes bicentennial

By The Associated Press

Wagon trains are scheduled to arrive in Valley Forge, Pa., sailing ships are on their way to New York's harbor, and the rest of America is on its way to a 200th birthday party full of parades, fireworks and ceremonies.

Five separate Bicentennial wagon trains, consisting of 2,000 persons in 200 wagons, have traveled 17,000 miles across country. The trains planned to make camp this afternoon in Valley Forge, where George Washington spent the winter of 1777.

President Ford plans to visit Valley Forge on Sunday, signing his name to a pledge of rededication to the principles of the Declaration of Independence. He will join 22 million other Americans who have already signed.

The President is also expected to sign a bill declaring Valley Forge a national park. From there, he goes to speak at Independence Hall in Philadelphia. At 2 p.m., the Hall's centennial bell will be rung, and bells across the nation will peal to announce the moment the Declaration was signed 200 years ago.

Ford will then go by helicopter to the deck of the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal for a look at Operation Sail, the extravaganza of sailing ships that is scheduled to take over New York harbor.

In Boston, the USS Constitution will be the center of attention. The Constitution, nicknamed "Old Ironsides" during the War of 1812, will fire its guns at noon Sunday for the first time in 95 years. Her captain, Cmdr. Tyrone Martin, promises "a very satisfying crack" from the 21-gun salute.

"We fired six test rounds last Wednesday," said Martin. "We got a four-foot flame out of the muzzle and the museum curator next door thought a bomb had gone off, until he heard the second one and remembered the firing was scheduled."

Boston and Hawaii will also team up to use light emitted by a star 200 years ago to light the lantern in the Old North Church, where legend says "one if by land, two if by sea" guided Paul Revere on his midnight ride.

The light will be captured by a telescope at the Mauna Kea Observatory in Hawaii which in turn will trip a sensor that will flip a switch lighting the lantern in the Old North Church.

Glenn currently favorite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, says he currently is the front-runner among prospects to become Jimmy Carter's vice presidential running mate.

"I'm No. 1 on the list that I understand is under consideration," Glenn said Friday. "I'm very honored to be considered with such a distinguished group."

Senatorial sources familiar with Carter's vice presidential selection process have said that Glenn and Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Walter Mondale, D-Minn., are at the top of the Georgian's preference list. But Sens. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and Henry Jackson, D-Wash., are also said to be under consideration.

Glenn said he is not deluding himself that he has a better chance than anyone else to become the vice presidential nominee.

He said that he does not know exactly what Carter is looking for in a running mate and observed that "there will be other names brought up at the convention."

Former President Richard M. Nixon plans to spend the nation's 200th birthday watching television, hosting a quiet family dinner and viewing fireworks from his home, an aide announced Friday.

Phil Keller, of West Palm Beach, Fla., also plans a private July 4, although authorities aren't sure they'll let him go ahead with his plans.

Keller wants to go over Horseshoe Falls in a red, white and blue diving bell, but a spokesman for the Niagara Frontier State Parks Commission says, "We don't encourage things like this."

Ohio in festive holiday spirit

By The Associated Press

The weekend of weekends for history buffs, patriots and advertisers is upon us.

And just in time it seems. The corn is well over knee high, gasoline is abundant and the weatherman promises the second perfect weekend of the summer.

The celebrations should be heady, as we Americans will be trying to jam 200 years of historic happiness into one weekend.

Towns all over Ohio say their fireworks displays are going to be the biggest ever. A suburban Columbus man says he has created the heaviest-ever American flag, a 55,000-pound concrete block creation. The people at Kings Island family entertainment center will be participating in the longest-ever live TV program. State statisticians say the east-west traffic volume should be the heaviest ever for this holiday weekend.

All in all, the doings look to be the biggest. Who knows, maybe the best.

The National Weather Service has revised its forecast for the better. Originally showers were in view for Monday. Now the last day of the long weekend is expected to be a repeat of Saturday and Sunday—skies will be clear and temperatures should not reach far above 80 while dropping into the mid 50s or lower 60s at night.

In Dayton, the Fourth will mark the opening of the Ohio Bicentennial Aviation Festival, an event focusing on that city's aviation heritage. In Cincinnati, the weekend will end with a performance of the symphony orchestra—the finale will be a thunderous report from 300 shells fired all at once from a barge in the Ohio River.

Cleveland festivities at Edgewater Park are expected to draw 200,000 to a $10,000 fireworks display. The total number of watchers is expected to include those viewing from about 1,000 boats anchored off shore in Lake Erie.

Mrs. W.R. Timken of Canton will have the long weekend to spend admiring a priceless gift she received Friday from the citizens of Colmar, France. The mayor of that eastern French city was in Ohio to give Mrs. Timken a Statue of Liberty replica created in 1875 by Francis Auguste Bertholdi. The gift was given by the city in appreciation for financial assistance from the Timken family, owners of Timken Roller Bearing Co. with a plant in Colmar.

In among all these biggest-ever claims is a traffic death toll prediction from the Department of Highway Safety. It says 23 people will die over the long weekend, nearly double the 12 who died last year over the Fourth.

The department asks motorists to obey the speed limit and warns that state patrolmen will be out in full force to see that they do.

Lyndon man arrested in check fraud case

A Ross County man was arrested Friday by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and charged with purchasing a $220 car with a check from a non-existent checking account.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson said that Arnold R. Huntsman, 23, of Lyndon, was arrested by Pike County sheriff's deputies, and held for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. He had been indicted secretly by a June 11 session of the Fayette County grand jury.

According to Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks, the investigating officer, a complaint on June 10 by Oscar Glass, owner of Glass Used Cars, stated that Huntsman had purchased a car with a check drawn on a Greenfield bank.

Upon investigation, it was found that Huntsman did not have an account with the bank.

The car was recovered from a residence in Ross County, and Huntsman was identified as the person responsible for passing the bad check. Huntsman is currently incarcerated in the Fayette County jail in lieu of bond.

Washington C.H. police officers investigated a bicycle larceny report and an injured person incident on Friday.

Robert L. Forrest, 11, of 810 Lincoln Drive, told police officers that a $95 bicycle was stolen from the Oakland Avenue swimming pool parking lot sometime between 8 and 8:45 p.m. Friday, while he was in the pool.

Ronald Seymore, 11, of 329 Florence St., suffered a laceration on his skull at approximately 11 a.m. Friday, while he was on the front porch of his residence. It was not determined exactly how the youth sustained the injury, though police officers believed he might have bumped his head while playing below the porch.

The youth was taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Death penalty ruling raises questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has upheld the death penalty in some cases, but in a complex decision it also has imposed new restrictions on its use that could invalidate the law in a number of states.

The court ruled 5 to 4 Friday that capital punishment laws must provide standards for the imposition of the ultimate penalty.

It also said the laws must provide some method, such as a separate trial on the penalty issue, by which the individual criminal and the circumstances of the crime could be considered.

On this basis, it struck down measures in Louisiana and North Carolina that made the death penalty mandatory for several kinds of murder.

By a separate 7-2 vote, the court ruled that the death penalty is not in itself constitutionally prohibited. It specifically upheld capital punishment laws in Florida, Georgia and Texas, which are not mandatory and do provide standards for the penalty's imposition.

An Associated Press survey indicated that 25 states have some kind of mandatory death penalty laws. There also is a federal law making death mandatory for fatal airplane hijackings.

The measures vary widely, however, and the court said laws making death mandatory for an "extremely narrow" category of homicides might be permissible. The example given was murder by a prisoner serving a life term.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill said in Austin, Tex., "we are not going to see executions carried out anytime soon."

But Calif. Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger commented, "I hope we can get down to where there is an orderly carrying out of executions in the near future."

Charlotte, N.C., prosecutor Joe Freeman Britt predicted North Carolina would "go under whatever rules they've set up and move in that direction."

Indians carry own holiday message

WASHINGTON (AP) — With their teepees and tents set up on a college soccer field, approximately 300 Indians carrying a message for the nation on the eve of the Bicentennial celebration have completed a journey that began on the shores of the Pacific.

"We're not a dissident organization. We're not here to take over anything or cause any trouble," said Sid Mills, a Nisqually Indian from Nisqually, Wash. "We're here to secure a future for the Indian people, because there is none now."

Mills and his group, "Survival for American Indians," left Seattle March 19, in cars, vans, campers and a school bus, forming a caravan that grew as it picked up support on the trans-continental trip.

The Indians had hoped to camp on the Mall across Constitution Avenue from the old Bureau of Indian Affairs building that was taken over by an Indian group in 1972, but permission was denied. They ended up using the playing field at American University.

They set up their tents and teepees Friday, while local residents jogged on the track surrounding the campsite and others walked dogs.

The Indians plan to demonstrate near the White House, but they say they also have arranged meetings with representatives of President Ford and the Interior Department, hoping to discuss an overhaul of government policies relating to the nation's Indian tribes.

"We didn't travel three months to demonstrate on the Fourth of July and then go home," Mills said.

Mills, 27, is the group's executive director and has coordinated the trip, known as the "Trail of Self-Determination."

"We're different people and we have to live our own way. That's the point we're trying to make on the eve of the Bicentennial," he said.

Governor vetoes free lunch bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has vetoed a "hollow promise" a bill that would provide free breakfasts and lunches to eligible needy pupils in public schools.

The governor asserted Friday the measure was not funded and said many schools would be unable to comply with its provisions.

At the same time, Rhodes affixed his signature to four other measures, including one that makes faculty members at state universities eligible for a year of paid professional leave after seven years of teaching at the same institution.

Others, all of which have Oct. 1 effective dates, permit volunteer rescue vehicles to display flashing red lights, run stop signs, and exceed speed limits on emergency runs, allow cities to assess businesses in enclosed shopping malls for heating and cooling expenses, and require federal approval for annexation of military installations by municipal corporations.

The latter measure is designed to end a legal hassle among municipalities seeking to annex all or portions of Wright Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton.

In vetoing the school food bill, Rhodes noted there are 146 school buildings in Ohio which lack kitchen facilities and would be unable to meet the free food requirement. He said the cost of installing kitchens would be from $25,000 to $50,000 each.

The governor also said that since the legislation requires state funds to obtain available federal funds, there would be added costs to local school districts. The cost this year would have been $186,000 if only half of Ohio's school districts had participated in such a program, he added in his veto message.

"Now is not too soon," Rhodes said, for the legislature to realize that the school districts "do not have a bottomless well from which money gushes to pay for the good intentions of the General Assembly."

Big Bear sale nearly complete

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Big Bear Stores Co. has signed a contract calling for the sale of its assets to a group of private investors led by Oppenheimer & Co. for about $41.6 million in cash.

Oppenheimer made the purchase offer earlier and reports the proposal still must be approved by Big Bear shareholders who will vote on the sale at their annual meeting in August.

Ethics probe highlights problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first decision by the House ethics committee to recommend a misconduct reprimand against a congressman spotlights the need for financial disclosure by members of Congress, says the citizens group that started the action against Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes.

The committee delayed formal announcement of the decision until next week, but congressional sources confirmed that the panel had decided to recommend to the full House that Sikes be reprimanded for misconduct.

Fred Wertheimer, vice president of Common Cause, the self-styled citizens lobby, said Friday that the Sikes verdict marks "an historic action on the part of the ethics committee and a major breakthrough in the battle to have Congress face up to the serious problems of professional integrity facing it."

Sikes, a Florida Democrat, is chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee on military construction, which oversees billions of dollars worth of military contracts.

The 12-member ethics committee took up the case after Common Cause, aided by 44 congressmen, filed a sworn complaint citing various conflict-of-interest allegations against Sikes.

Wertheimer said the decision "would set the stage for dealing with the larger issue involved here — the need to pass remedial legislation to require comprehensive public financial disclosure by members of Congress to prevent future conflict of interest."

"To date, this legislation has been bottled up in the House Judiciary Committee, but there can be no further justification for Chairman Peter Rodino's sitting on the legislation," the Common Cause official said.

The ethics panel, formally known as the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, could have opted for several more severe penalties against Sikes, including censure, a fine, loss of his subcommittee chairmanship or even expulsion from the House.

Sikes could not be reached immediately for comment on the decision. In previous statements, he has vigorously denied the conflict-of-interest charges, asserting that they were devised "to destroy me politically."

The panel reportedly found Sikes guilty of violating ethical standards of the House on each of three conflict-of-interest charges:

—Failure to disclose publicly his ownership of stock in Fairchild Industries, a major defense contractor. In the early 1960s, Sikes had been active in urging a Fairchild subsidiary to locate a plant at Crestview, Fla., within his congressional district.

—Failure to disclose that he owned stock in First Navy Bank of Pensacola, Fla. Common Cause charged that Sikes bought the stock after helping the bank to set up a new facility at Pensacola Naval Air Station.

—Gaining personal benefit from sponsorship of legislation affecting Santa Rosa Island, along the upper Gulf Coast of Florida.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.
SUNDAY, JULY 4

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to April. 20)

A period for some reappraisal. Through reflection, you will get a clearer picture of the road ahead, to make plans for further accomplishment and satisfaction.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Your self confidence and poise should be at a peak now, so take the initiative and go after what you want. Stumbling blocks will fall by the wayside.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Excellent Mercury influences encourage intellectual pursuits, community interests and written matters. Day spells action. Plan — and act — wisely.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Don't let your impulses dominate logic — especially in situations where finances are involved. Recklessness with money now could prove disastrous later.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Personal relationships under something of a cloud. Be especially tactful in situations where money is involved.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Some intrigue evident. Keep involvement to a minimum. Go your sturdy way, unaffected by pettiness or deception.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Avoid tendencies toward emotionalism, impatience with obstacles. You have no opponents so strong that they can't be handled with persuasiveness and good will.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Avoid making hasty decisions. Look more closely into all situations. There may be values not seen at a cursory glance.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A stimulating day! Stellar aspects give new impetus to all worthwhile undertakings. Especially favored: family interests, community projects, travel.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't be disappointed if a planned trip is called off. It could be for the best. Evening social activities promise to be lively.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Distant interests take the spotlight. You may now be able to take a trip that was postponed or you may hear some excellent news from afar.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
Your native intuition at a peak. A good day for backing your hunches with zestful, optimistic performance. Travel and romance favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are a steadfast, persevering and fastidious individual; widely talented and imaginative. You can create with great originality or take another's idea and improve it far beyond the author's dreams. You have a great love of heritage and are intensely patriotic. Your sense of responsibility is outstanding, and, if you can curb a tendency to be too strict a disciplinarian, would make a most dedicated teacher. Other fields in which you could excel: acting, writing, music, interior decorating or commercial art; in the business world as merchant, financier, real estate operator or economist.

MONDAY, JULY 5

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

A good word from the right source may enable you to gain the recognition you have been waiting for. Business and financial matters highly favored.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Your Venus, beneficent, now stimulates creativity and intuition. You should have a happy day if you don't fret over imaginary obstacles.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Keep emotions under control and do not make drastic or needless changes on the spur of the moment. Be especially careful in a romantic involvement.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Day should prove stimulating in many ways, in many areas.

One of your more casual interests will now take on added importance.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Where there's a difference of opinion in a job situation, negotiate rather than argue. Realize that you have the necessary backing and act accordingly.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Emphasis is on ACTION. You can now go ahead with plans conceived last week, expanding your interests considerably.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

The spotlight is now on your material interests. Indications are that you will receive something of value — and in an entirely unexpected manner.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Stellar influences encourage more of the grit and ingenuity that won laurels for you in the past. This will be a good day for innovations.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Not a good day in which to speculate, but a fine one in which to seek information regarding future investments.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Your morale should get a boost now. Some new light is shed on old problems and you should find more persons responding to your efforts. A brighter outlook indicated.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A new approach to a business matter advised. Look beyond the immediate situation. Potential is greater than you may imagine.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Don't give up on a pet project because it seems to lack luster. Try a novel twist in approach — to restore incentive and get going again.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely energetic individual, highly ambitious and willing to work hard for the things you want. You are a strict disciplinarian — generous with your time on behalf of others, but impatient when they err or otherwise fail to conform to your fixed ideas. You have a genial personality and could make a great success as a salesman, promoter or public speaker; in fact, in any field which involves dealing with the public.

Politics and statesmanship are especially good outlets for your talents. On the personal side, you have a charming and outgoing personality; are devoted to home and family and, socially, always in demand. You are conservative and conventional; inclined to be too dogmatic at times.

TUESDAY, JULY 6

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Business relationships under excellent influences. You can now make progress in areas previously blocked; can also capitalize on new ideas.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Certain phases of a recent activity are now drawing to a successful conclusion. Take the initiative if you can and force the pace.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Pleasing recognition for your work on a recent project now raises your self-esteem and give you a warm glow of satisfaction.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Be extremely alert now. Something which seems to be handed to you on the proverbial silver platter may actually have strings attached.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You may face some opposition. Handle with the utmost tact and discretion and, above all, keep emotions under stern control.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Job concerns in high favor. Better communication between yourself and co-workers indicated. Make some minor concessions in order to effect major gains.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You may find yourself drawn in two directions at once. This is the time to stop, look and listen. And, remember, the "easy" road is not necessarily the best one.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Something you hear may cause you to suspect backstage maneuvering, but don't let it lessen your self-confidence. Keep going as you planned and ignore rumors.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Your versatility pays off now. An ingenious suggestion you make in a tricky job situation not only works out but wins plaudits.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Avoid a strong tendency toward wishful thinking. Realism and objectivity needed in all situations. Optimism, too!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Don't jump to hasty conclusions. Even where long-postponed changes are due, do not make them impulsively. Best efforts could be rendered futile by anxiety, premature action.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Certain situations could disconcert — if you permit. Don't look to the past for answers. Look to the future and, for the present, ride with the tide.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely direct and enthusiastic individual. Conventional and conservative, too, you have an unusual sense of responsibility. Your curiosity is boundless, which helps you to obtain more knowledge than others and which, should you take up science as a career, as many Cancerians have, can take you far — actually into new worlds of discovery which could benefit mankind. Other fields suited to your abilities: teaching, writing, medicine and institutional work — especially with children.

Which shot "killed"?

CASE
Walter's favorite sport was deer hunting. On one of his hunting trips he shot a big deer but failed to kill it. The deer managed to run about a mile before it fell down. Robert, another hunter, saw the deer fall, walked over, pointed his gun within three feet of the deer and fired the finishing shot.

When Walter arrived on the scene he claimed the deer was his since his shot had put the deer in such a condition that escape was improbable if not impossible. Robert stated the deer belonged to him since his shot actually killed the deer.

The two men could not settle the dispute between themselves so they took the matter to court. Who did the court allow to have the deer?

DECISION
Walter got the deer. The court held that the instant a wild animal is brought under the control of a person so that actual possession is practically inevitable, a vested property interest in it accrues which cannot be divested by another intervening and killing it.

The first bank authorized by the Ohio Legislature was the Miami Exporting Co. of Cincinnati in 1807. The bank issued banknotes. Other banks were chartered at Chillicothe, Marietta and Steubenville in 1808.

Amish, non-Amish seek cooperation

FREDERICKSBURG, Ohio (AP) — The talk of prosperity in this tiny Wayne County village is connected to the willingness of the Amish and non-Amish population to work together.

The 651 residents in this quiet community in northeastern Ohio include a mixture of traditional Amish families and those who have adopted modern ways.

"I left here eight years ago thinking Fredericksburg was a dump," said Wayne Hershberger, 32. He left the Amish church, though some of his relatives here remain members.

"But now I sense growth, a rebirth," Hershberger said. "I feel there is a lot of interest in what's happening in this town."

One change is that some Amish families have joined local commercial life with the "English," as they call non-Amish people.

Some Amish men are carpenters in town and some Amish women work in light industry in Wayne or Holmes County.

When Hershberger left the Amish church, he decided to learn to drive and managed a car dealership for several years.

"I told dad I was going to get a car and then put it away after a few years," Hershberger said. "I never did."

Hershberger said the Amish are not impressed or interested in such pursuits. "They can't understand why I want all these things. I could return to the church of my parents, but I'm sure it will never happen."

Some of the Amish here retain their religion while adopting modern methods. Fannie and Eli Hostetler operate a general store in town and have received permission from their Amish bishop to use electricity at work.

"There are a few in our church...who would like to see me leave the store," Hostetler said. "But I asked the bishops' advice and they said if you stay honest and are not tempted to cheat, it's all right. With love, we've worked it out."

"This community is different from any other, I think," Hostetler said. "The people aren't just customers, they're friends. For me that's what makes business good."

The difference in cultures has affected the Hostetler family. Eli's brother, Dan, left the church in 1946, traveled around the country and then returned. But Dan says his lifestyle has little effect on his position in the community.

"There is no distinction between Amish and ex-Amish," Dan said. "We're all people."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Swinger's wife not into mateswapping

DEAR ABBY: When my husband first suggested that we join a swingers club and switch partners with other couples who advertised their availability in a porno magazine, I told him I wasn't interested. (He's 34, I'm 30 and we've been married 10 years.)

He called me a prude and said that swinging was a common practice with married couples. (Is it?) I told him I would divorce him if he ever fooled around like that.

I thought the subject was forgotten, then I found a letter he had written to this club saying he wanted to participate, but he would have to be discreet because his wife wasn't interested. I wasn't snooping, Abby; the letter was laying on top of the desk in our den. With the letter was a Polaroid picture he had taken of himself in a mirror naked!

I've always trusted him until now. What should I do? File for a divorce or forget I saw the letter? I am sick to death over this.

HURT AND DESPERATE

DEAR HURT: Tell him you saw the letter and picture, and ask him to see a marriage counselor with you. He needs to have his head straightened out if you're to get your marriage back on the right track.

He's wrong. Respectable married couples do not exchange sex partners with other couples. THAT is the beginning of the end.

DEAR ABBY: I have been widowed for four months. About six weeks ago I took a bus trip to the West Coast from Illinois. While waiting in the bus terminal for the bus to be serviced, I met a nice-looking, well-dressed gentleman. He asked me to have a cup of coffee with him, and before I boarded the bus he asked me for my address. He said he came through my town often and wanted to see me again.

Well, I wasn't back home very long when this man called and said he was in town. He took me out for dinner and we had a fine time. He calls me long distance every night and comes to see me every weekend.

He wants to marry me, but I am not sure I want to marry him because he's been married and divorced four times. He admits he has no money because his last wife took him for everything he had. He has no health or life insurance, but he does have high blood pressure, emphysema and diabetes. I am 58 and he is 62.

Common sense tells me to turn around and run like mad, but I think I'm falling in love with him, and my heart seems to be ruling my head. I'm not a rich woman, but I'm not poor either.

My children are begging me to quit seeing him. Should I?

IN LOVE OR LONELY?

DEAR IN LOVE: I'd say, heed your common sense. Ma'am, and don't make any important decisions unless you are absolutely sure you can live with them.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé and I were making plans for our wedding when a problem came up. He asked me if I minded if he asked a girl to be his "best man." He says she is his best friend.

I didn't want to hurt his feelings, so I didn't say flat out that I minded. I just said maybe he should give it a little more thought.

Abby, I come from a very conventional family, and I don't want a girl to be "best man" at my wedding even if she is my fiancé's best friend.

Can you suggest a tactful way to let my fiancé know that I would prefer that he ask a male?

To be perfectly honest about it, my main objection is that I am afraid people will make fun of us, and I don't want anything to spoil my wedding day.

VERMONT BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Since the expected ridicule would take the joy out of your wedding, level with your fiancé and ask him to select a male for the best man.

Wheat yields good, but damage running high

County Extension Agent, Ag. Reports coming in from farmers and grain elevators around the county indicate that wheat yields are better than anticipated earlier, but damage is running high.

While recent rains have been a blessing for the corn and soybean crops, they have caused severe damage to the wheat crop. Elevator operators report most wheat coming in is being discounted because of sprout damage.

The rains of a week ago delayed harvest of wheat that was ready and also provided moisture and humidity to allow the wheat grain to sprout in the head.

One elevator operator reported sprout damage ranging from four per cent to 21 per cent. Another indicated damage ranging as high as 30 per cent or more.

The good news about the wheat crop is that although wheat yields are below normal they are running better than earlier expected. Several yields in the 40 to 50 bushel ranges have been reported.

Most folks were not looking for any record setting yields this year. Day weather and the early warm spell caused wheat to head early this year and at a very shot height. Some wheat headed at a height of approximately 12 inches.

THIS LOOKS like the year for a lot of August seedings to be made also. We have had several calls this week questions about August seedings of alfalfa after the wheat is off. Seedings made in the wheat crop did not have enough moisture to survive. Many of these fields are going to need re-seeding this summer to provide pasture and hay crops for next summer.

TUESDAY night's rain made things a bit muddy for the Herbicide Field Day Wednesday afternoon. In spite of the muddy conditions we had 30 farmers and chemical folks on hand to view the soybean herbicide plots.

The mud caused cancellation of the corn herbicide plot session. However, both the corn and soybean herbicide plots will be labeled throughout the summer. This will provide corn and soybean producers an opportunity to view the plots and examine the weed control of the various herbicides throughout the remainder of the growing season.

DIRECTORS of the Fayette County Cattlefeeders Association will be meeting at the Extension Office Wednesday, July 7 at 8 p.m. Two main items on the agenda are plans for the county fair and for the annual Cattlefeeders roundup.

THE 1976 edition of the Fayette County Fair is little more than three weeks away. This years event gets underway Sunday, July 25 and runs through Saturday July 31.

A highlight of the 1976 fair will be Bicentennial Day, Monday, Monday, July 26. Several events are being planned for that day including an old-fashioned picnic at the fair. We would encourage everyone to make plans now to participate in the Bicentennial Day picnic and all 1976 fair activities.

SPEAKING of fairs - entry deadline for the 1976 Ohio State Fair is July 15. Open class and Jr. exhibitors need to keep the date in mind. All junior exhibitors must have their entries signed to certify that they are in 4-H or FFA.

A RECENT report from Dale Friday, general manager of the Ohio State Farm Science Review, indicates that crops for the September 21-23 Farm Science Review are in excellent condition and ahead of normal progress. This year's review will also feature a display of antique farm machinery as well as a section of crops from by-gone years.

Training course completed

Bob Caughron, of Washington C.H., has completed a week of intensive training in St. Louis, Mo. He and 35 other Ralston Purina Co. feed dealers and their employees took part in a headquarters school designed to update the Chow Division's independent dealer organization.

Caughron traveled to St. Louis as a representative of the Carter Feed and Grain Co., of Frankfort. At the sales school, he had an opportunity to meet and visit with other dealers and dealer employees from across the nation. Through this contact, he learned how they serve farmers in different market areas.

"There is nothing more basic than food," Caughron said. "First-hand, I saw what Purina is doing to help the American farmer produce more meat, milk and eggs, through faster and more economical feeding techniques. I want to help the feeders in the Fayette County area realize their true potential and I'm more firmly convinced than ever that the real potential is in more scientific feeding methods," he added.

Held at the learning center of the Purina Agri-Business Institute in downtown St. Louis, the sales school combined information gathered from

Records show larger wheat reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department this week put into effect a change in handling wheat statistics which immediately shows that the U.S. reserve of bread grain has been larger all along than the previous records have indicated.

No illegal bookkeeping is involved. The new system, in fact, was ordered by Congress last year and is intended to portray the wheat supply situation more realistically than in the past.

The change simply involves moving the beginning of the wheat marketing year up one month. Historically, the USDA's wheat marketing year used for statistical purposes began July 1 and ran through the next June 30. Now it will begin June 1 and extend through the following May 31.

Several reports issued this week were the first to incorporate the new bookkeeping year. Revisions also have been issued showing the wheat situation on the new June 1 basis for the past decade.

Many years ago little wheat was harvested before July 1. So what was left over from previous crops on that date was used as a benchmark for computing the total supply — the old-crop wheat plus grain from the new harvest — for the following year.

But harvest starting times have changed with modern varieties, combines, drying equipment and transportation. Thus, by July 1, much new wheat has already been harvested, delivered to elevators and — in some cases — on its way to port facilities for delivery abroad. In effect, counting this "new" wheat, there has been much more grain available on July 1 than the old system of bookkeeping has indicated.

The archaic wheat year really came under fire a few years ago when, after big export sales to Russia and other countries, there were alarms that the U.S. supply might run out before the new harvest was ready and that bread might soar to $1 a loaf.

None of that happened, although the average farm price of wheat did rise to a record of $5.52 a bushel on Feb. 15, 1974, according to USDA. At the time, growers, grain trade experts and many members of Congress pointed out the fallacy of using July 1 wheat supply estimates as a benchmark for judging the situation.

Using the new June 1 starting date, the department says that there were 665 million bushels of wheat in the U.S. stockpile from previous crops. The old method had projected the "oldcrop" reserve would be 543 million bushels going into the 1976-77 marketing year on July 1.

Last year's reserve, carryover, carryout, carryin — the terms mean the same — on June 1 was 430 million bushels compared with the old July 1 total of 327 million used earlier.

The change to a June 1 marketing year starting date does not mean one bit more or less wheat. But it does provide farmers, the grain trade and the public with a more realistic accounting of how much grain there is on hand at a time when another new crop is ready for harvest.

Also changed to the June 1 year from July 1 were oats, barley, rye and flaxseed. Marketing years for other major commodities were not changed.

The marketing year for corn and sorghum begins on Oct. 1; soybeans Sept. 1; and cotton Aug. 1.

Feedlot use on upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers and ranchers continue to put more cattle in feedlots for fattening, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of June 1, the department said Monday, a seven-state inventory showed that 7,254,000 head of cattle were on feed. That was up 24 per cent from last year's record low number, officials said.

The feedlot increase means that more grain-feed cattle — the kind that produces the choicest beef for consumers — are increasing from a year ago. Further, the report said, cattle marketed from these lots during May were up to the total of 1,489,000.

Rains set stage for bumper crop

By The Associated Press

The rains that fell this past week in Ohio were critical and set the stage for potentially bumper if not record harvest figures.

C. William Swank, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, said the downpours saved millions of dollars in crops.

"Without a good rain about when that first one came last weekend, and without the additional soaking Thursday, crop production would have been way down," he said.

Swank's comments mirrored those of many Ohio farmers and agricultural experts who had been watching the corn crop "roll up and look pretty sick."

The corn crop in north and south central Ohio will be helped especially, said Austin E. Showman of the Cooperative Extension Service. He added a word of caution, though, about possible wind damage to the wheat crop, which farmers should begin harvesting in the next week and a half.

The rains that saved the corn crop may have helped the soybean crop. But the bean harvest this year should be down from last year despite good growing conditions because fewer acres were planted this year.

Pat Casey, also of the farm bureau, said Ohio farmers claimed they intended to plant about 5 per cent more acres in corn this year than they did last. But he said he estimated because of the dry spring the percentage may be as high as 11 per cent.

The increased corn acreage won't mean the yield this year will be higher than last year's record, says Dr. Gordon Ryder of the Ohio State University's agronomy department. He claims the unusually dry weather right after the corn was planted caused dry rot in many of the seeds and left others to lay in the ground, failing to germinate until two weeks or more after planting.

The effect of the dry weather was the same as if too much rain had caused the farmers to plant corn late which means a lower than normal yield, Ryder says.

Moisture is still critical for farmers in northwest Ohio where the rain Thursday was the first appreciable amount since May, he said.

Now that critical rains have fallen in most of the state, Ryder says, the corn crop should advance normally.

"Ideally the soil should be at 80 per cent or better field moisture capacity for the 10-day period five days before the corn breaks tassel," Ryder explained. The soil moisture level in general is at that level, he said.

Corn will be sending out tassels in the next two weeks and during that time the crop absorbs about 55 per cent of the moisture it uses during the entire growing season. The same figures hold roughly for nutrient absorption, Ryder said.

As for soybeans the moisture and nutrient absorption critical periods won't arrive for another month and the same soil moisture levels will be needed then.

Make a grand entrance

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

DEAR JOAN: We've just bought a house. The entry hall opens on the living room. My question: How should I handle the decorating? The entry has a brick floor. Should I carpet it to match the living room? Should walls in both areas match? — E.C.

Dear E.C.: Since space relates the two areas, decorating should too. By all means, paint or paper walls in the same color or pattern. I wouldn't carpet the entry foyer — except perhaps for an area rug. Brick flooring is practical because snow, rain and mud can be mopped up so easily.

What's Hardwood?

Dear Joan: The term "hardwood" seems to crop up often in decorating stories. Would you clarify it for me? What woods are hardwood? — Confused.

Dear Confused: Hardwood, which comes from trees that lose their leaves in fall, includes popular walnut, cherry, maple, and mahogany. Softwoods come from trees — the evergreens — that keep their leaves year round.

Antimacassars, Anyone?

Dear Joan: An elderly aunt left me a cedar chest filled with hand-crocheted antimacassars. I think they might be collector's items. Aside from that, do you have any suggestions as to how they can be used? — S.L.

Dear S.L.: It's conceivable that you have a chest full of collector's items but this point hinges on their age and workmanship. You might check your local library for books on handwork to see if your trunkload is valuable. Shop antiques, too, to get an idea of current market value.

Antimacassars, which were made to protect the back and arms of furniture, aren't much in fashion these days because their fussiness is distracting, especially if furnishings are contemporary. However, they are practical. You might consider using them to protect your upholstered pieces from family wear and tear, but do remove them when company comes if they look too busy — and they're apt to.

Stripes and Checks

Dear Joan: Can you ever use a striped wallpaper and a checked wallpaper in the same room? It doesn't sound as if it would work, but someone has suggested the idea. What do you think? — P.M.

WALLCOVERING, designed by Gloria Vanderbilt for James Seeman, unites entry and living room. On scarlet ground, pattern includes royal, yellow, lime, and white.

Dear P.K.: It can work wonderfully well, provided the papers are color-coordinated. That the secret of successfully combining patterns.

Bronzed Baby Shoes

Dear Joan: What do you think of bronzing baby shoes and using them as bookends or as planters? — I. O.

Dear I. O.: I don't happen to dig bronzed baby shoes. If their sentimental value grabs you, if you feel warm and wonderful when you look at them, then bronze away. Just don't expect visitors to burst into raves when they see them.

Backers defend federal economic statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite complaints that economic statistics can be misleading, many economists insist that those used in reporting major economic activities in the United States are the most professionally produced anywhere.

"They are the best and fastest in the world," said Albert Cox, chief economist of Lionel D. Edie & Co., formerly with the Council of Economic Advisers, and a man sometimes harrassed by repeated revisions.

He and many others believe the revisions, while irritating, are the result of an almost never-ending quest for perfection, following pressure from various groups for speedy release of initial data.

Because of this demand for speed, reports on such indicators as the Gross National Product may be offered in a sequence spanning many weeks, with each report supposedly more refined than the one before. The first is labeled advance, followed by preliminary and final.

Popularly used, however, the first and probably least accurate report is accepted. It is also the one that draws comment from public officials and the news media. Revisions, no matter how significant, seldom attract widespread attention.

Instead, we often seem mesmerized by the numbers, as if they were undebatable truth, proof, evidence, when in truth they may be incorrect.

Final, at any rate, may be a misnomer. Conscientious economists and statisticians sometimes revise entire years, and often excavate deep into history to do so, long after official decisions have been based on old data.

If there is anything axiomatic about the economic numbers, in fact, it is that what you accept today as the statistical truth will be revised tomorrow.

The seasonal adjusting of various economic equations also brings into use what critics believe is a subjective tendency. The theory of such adjusting is to remove the effect of recurring events so as to reveal underlying trends.

A's hurler back on mound

Royals turn Oakland Blue

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer

A left-hander wearing Vida Blue's uniform pitched for the Oakland A's Friday night but it will be a while longer before the real Vida Blue stands on the mound.

Appearing for the first time in three weeks following his controversial $1.5 million sale to the New York Yankees that subsequently was nullified by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Blue was rapped for four runs in the first inning as the Kansas City Royals thumped the A's 8-5.

"Its going to be spring training all over for me, I guess," said Blue, who lasted into the sixth inning, was charged with six runs on seven hits and suffered the loss.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox edged the Texas Rangers 1-0, the Minnesota Twins nipped the California Angels 6-5, the Yankees trimmed the Cleveland Indians 7-1, the Baltimore Orioles shaded the Detroit Tigers 2-1 and the Boston Red Sox blanked the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0.

Twins 6, Angels 5

Rod Carew drove in three runs with a homer and double and Craig Kusick's pinch swing in the fifth inning sent Butch Wynegar home with the winning run as the Twins saddled Andy Hassler with his 17th consecutive setback. Hassler, 0-6 this season after dropping his last 11 decisions in 1975, came on in the third inning after the Angels erased a 5-0 deficit and tied the score. He allowed only three hits the rest of the way but the one run he yielded was enough to make him a loser.

White Sox 1, Rangers 0

Bart Johnson maintained his mastery over Texas by outdueling Bert Blyleven with a five-hitter, giving him a 7-0 career record over the Rangers. Jorge Orta singled home the game's only run in the first inning as the White Sox snapped a nine-game home losing streak. Blyleven had won his last two outings by 1-0 scores, both in 10 innings.

Yankees 7, Indians 1

Chris Chambliss slammed a three-run homer and Lou Piniella added a two-run shot, helping Catfish Hunter to his 10th victory. The triumph ended New York's losing string at three games and moved the Yankees seven games ahead of the Indians in the AL East. Hunter gave up six hits, including George Hendrick's 13th home run in the second inning. The Yankees chased Cleveland starter Rick Waits with four runs in the first inning.

Orioles 2, Tigers 1

Baltimore wasted numerous early scoring chances and then beat the Tigers on Mark Belanger's two-out broken-bat double in the seventh inning. Belanger also doubled and scored the Orioles' first run in the third inning while Jim Palmer won his 10th game of the year and fourth in a row with a five-hitter.

Red Sox 3, Brewers 0

Dick Pole and Jim Willoughby teamed up on an eighthitter and ex-Brewer Bobby Darwin homered in the second inning.

Asked if he especially enjoyed homering against his former club, Darwin replied: "No, not really. I'm just glad we won the game. I proved I could hit if I was given the chance. I never got it here."

Rochester Red Wings defeat Toledo, 8-2

By The Associated Press

The Red Wings are flying. The Rochester team won its 12th in a row Friday night as Rich Dauer belted a three-run homer, to lead his team over Toledo, 8-2, in International League play.

In other games, Memphis downed Richmond, 8-2, and Charleston blasted Tidewater, 9-2.

Behind Cedeno's bat

Astros sweep Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joaquin Andujar says he holds no grudge against the team he dreamed of playing for.

"It's a funny feeling facing them. I call Tony Perez my father. And Pete Rose is my favorite player," said Andujar, after beating the Cincinnati Reds for the third straight time this season.

Propelled by Cesar Cedeno's blazing bat, the Houston Astros swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati Friday night, winning the opener 10-8 and the nightcap 3-2 behind Andujar's pitching.

"I hold no hard feelings," said Andujar, "but now somebody knows I am not a Class AAA pitcher."

Traded by Cincinnati during the winter, Andujar feels he deserved a spot on the Reds roster in 1975. But he ended up back with the Reds Class AAA farm team.

"Then, after six days, they sent me to Class AA. I am no Class AA pitcher. I told the manager at Indianapolis 'I am going to show you.' I went because I knew I was going to be in the big leagues some day."

The rap on Andujar was that he possessed a hot temper and a tendency toward wildness. New-found self control has helped keep his pitches in the strike zone, says Andujar.

"I don't push hard anymore. Every second you get older," he philosophized. "I just try to play hard all the time all the time, like Pete Rose. He is my man."

"I know I have to take the good with the bad. Tonight I am on the moon. Tomorrow I could be back on the ground," he said.

Meanwhile Cedeno was celebrating the end of a slump with some pre-Fourth of July fireworks. His 14th inning two-run homer provided the winning margin in the opener and his two-run double in the eighth cracked a 1-1 deadlock in the nightcap.

"It's a funny game," said Cedeno, who had seven hits for the night while passing the 1,000-hit plateau. "The only ball I hit hard in the second game was caught."

His game-winning double arched lazily into right field, dropping inches in front of Ken Griffey's outstretched glove.

His average had dropped 50 points in recent weeks, from .320. "I'm picking up again. It's something you can't explain. A good hitter should get a hit anytime he wants."

After raking Reds' pitching for 25 hits in the opener, the Astros got only five off Fred Norman in the nightcap. Cedeno had three. "How do you figure it? Fred Norman is the only guy in the league who really gives me trouble."

The Reds wasted a 4-1 lead in the opener, then matched Houston's three-run outburst in the 11th and, after giving up three more in the 14th, nearly tied it again. Astros reliever Gene Pentz shut the door by striking out George Foster with the bases loaded and one run in. Foster, who had earlier extended his hitting streak to 17, sat out the nightcap with an aggravated shoulder.

Tonight, the Reds send Santo Alcala, 7-2, against Mike Cosgrove, 3-4.

Andy Messersmith is hitting his stride — both on the mound and at the plate.

Mustangers win Little League

The Mustangs topped Downtown Drug, 9-4, Friday to finish the season with a perfect record and the Washington C.H.-Union Township Little League championship.

1974 NFL practices declared unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League has been thrown for at least a partial loss by an administrative law judge for its dealings with the players' union.

Judge Charles W. Schneider of the National Labor Relations Board has ruled that the NFL used some unfair labor practices during the 1974 contract negotiations and the subsequent player strike.

Schneider said, however, the NFL can adopt playing rules to make the game more entertaining as long as their effect on the safety of the players is discussed with the union.

Babe Ruth

Bloomington scored seven runs in the final two innings to nip Good Hope, 9-8, in Babe Ruth League action Thursday.

Jim Matson drove in the tying and winning runs in the seventh with a single. The win upped Bloomington's season mark to 4-4.

There was a moment of silence before the start of the contest in memory of Mark Dunn, who played shortstop for Good Hope. He was killed last week in an automobile accident.

Paid mainly to pitch, the right-hander is giving the Atlanta Braves not only good hurling these days, but a bonus in the hitting department.

Friday night, Messersmith had three hits and a sacrifice in four at-bats and knocked in two runs as the Braves beat the San Francisco Giants 7-2.

Messersmith pitched a sixthitter for his seventh straight complete game and raised his record to 8-6.

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Diego Padres beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3; the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Montreal Expos 3-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 10-9 in 10 innings; the New York Mets tripped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and the Houston Astros took a doubleheader from the Cincinnati Reds, 10-8 in 14 innings and 3-2.

Messersmith knocked in the game's first run with a third-inning single following a double by Rob Bellor. An error and singles by Darrell Evans and Dave Rader gave the Giants an unearned run in the fourth, but the Braves went ahead to stay with two runs in the fifth off John Montefusco, 7-8.

Padres 6, Dodgers 3

Alan Foster and Butch Metzger combined to pitch a seven-hitter as San Diego beat Los Angeles. Foster scattered all the Dodger's hits before he was relieved by Metzger in the eighth inning. The reliever recorded his eighth save of the season. Foster improved his record to 3-4. The Padres collected 10 hits off loser Don Sutton, 7-8.

Cardinals 3, Expos 0

Jerry Murphy and Don Kessinger drove home fifth-inning runs and St. Louis went on to defeat Montreal behind Lynn McGlothen's five-hit, nine-strikeout performance. The scoring by the Cardinals, their first in 23 innings, came at the expense of Montreal left-hander Woodie Fryman, 8-6.

Pirates 10, Phillies 9

Pinch-hitter Bill Robinson hit a bases-empty home run in the 10th inning to give Pittsburgh its victory over Philadelphia. Robinson's leadoff homer spoiled a determined rally by the Phillies, who overcame an early 8-2 deficit with the help of a grand slam homer by Dick Allen and three ninth-inning runs.

Mets 2, Cubs 1

Jerry Koosman pitched one-hit baseball before giving up two singles with two out in the ninth inning and Ron Hodges singled in the winning run as New York beat Chicago. Before the New York left-hander gave up singles to Bill Madlock and Jerry Morales with one out left in the game, the only hit he had allowed was a first-inning single to Morales.

Blue Lion's Scott Sefton to wear Patriot uniform

Southern State College head basketball coach Bob Jacoby has announced four more new recruits including a Washington C.H. graduate, for next year's Patriot cage team.

Scott Sefton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sefton, 1206 Nelson Place, will join former Blue Lion teammate Doug Phillips this fall on the Patriot squad.

Sefton, a 5'10" guard, lettered two years for Washington Senior High School basketball coach Gary Shaffer. He was nominated for the Christman Award and received the "Super Sub" trophy for being the top sixth man on the Blue Lions sectional champion team this past season.

Sefton has also earned lettes in golf and baseball while at WSHS. He was named to the all-league golf team two years in a row.

Jacoby announced last month that Phillips, a three-year all-league choice at WSHS, would attend Southern State College.

The three other recruits named by Jacoby are Tim Carroll, 6-0 guard from Peebles High School; Gary McGlone, a 6-4 forward from Goshen High School; and Jerry Brandenburg, a 6-1 guard from Goshen.

Southern State was recently named to membership in the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA). The purpose of the association is to provide and supervise a national program of junior college sports activities of two-year colleges.

The membership in the NJCAA allows Southern State to participate in approved sports on a regional and national basis.

The Patriots finished 17-7 under Coach Jacoby last year in their first competitive season.

Zoeller takes lead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller, a 24-year-old former Indiana amateur champion, fired his second successive six-under-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 132, to take the lead in the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Zoeller's game Friday's put him a stroke ahead of runnerup Dave Hill.

Zoeller's round, in which he birdied four of his first six holes and showed eight birdies for the day, gave him the third best score for the first 36 holes of a pro tournament this year. Ray Floyd had a 13-under 131 en route to his Master's title, and Roger Maltbie was 12-under at 130 at Phoenix.

Zoeller shot his round in the morning, long before he was established as the second-round leader, but he said he expected minimal pressure in his final two rounds.

Mac McLendon, whose second-round 69 tied him with Johnny Jacobs for third place at eight-under 136, thinks Zoeller is for real — at least on the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course, which has been a tonic for the pros' confidence. Fifty-five of the 83 who survived the 145 cutoff point bettered par for the first two rounds.

"I'm not that familiar with Fuzzy, but I know he's a long hitter and this course is a long hitter's paradise," McLendon said.

Zoeller, who earned only $7,318 as a tour rookie and came here ranked 100th on this year's earning list with $11,779, surprised even himself with his torrid two rounds. His best previous showing this year was a ninth-place tie at Tallahassee and he made the cut in only nine of the 20 earlier meets in which he entered.

"There were so many birdies, I don't know what to think," he said. "It was almost birdie at will, I guess. This is something unusual for me."

Henry Hill winner

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Henry Hill went to the outside early at Latonia Friday night and came on in the stretch to win the $5,000 James K. Hackett Memorial race by a head.

The annual race honors a jockey killed at the track six years ago. Taking the mile in 2:02, Henry Hill paid $15.00, $5.20 and $3.00.

Winner Evert eyes prize money

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert, her second Wimbledon crown safely won, can now turn her attention back to getting equal prize money as the men.

Chris, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is the top money winner in women's tennis, and is also president of the Women's Tennis Association.

Earlier in the tournament, the WTA threw a bombshell at the Wimbledon committee by announcing its women would not play here next year unless they shared with the men. At present, the women get 80 per cent of the men's share.

In Saturday's men's singles final, Ilie Nastase, the temperamental Romanian, met Sweden's Bjorn Borg. Asked after her 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 final victory over Evonne Goolagong of Australia Friday whether she would be coming back to defend her title next year — Wimbledon's centennial year — she replied with a flat "No, unless parity of pay is agreed."

So far, the tournament committee has refused to meet the women's demands.

Chris has said 40 women have signed a declaration not to compete unless their demands are met, but Friday a rift appeared in the WTA ranks when Patti Hogan, the Wightman Cupper from La Jolla, Calif., who is also on the WTA board of directors, wrote to the London Times calling the move "folly."

Miss Evert said after her win, "I gave a lot of time to the WTA meeting with the championship committee during the first week. In the second week I tried to concentrate on my tennis. I will give pay parity further thought — the top players are still adamant."

Bloomington hurler tosses no-hit shutout

Glenn Ryan tossed a no-hitter Friday as Bloomington edged Williamsport, 1-0, in youth league action.

Ryan struck out eight and walked four in the contest while two Williamsport pitchers combined for a two-hitter in the game that lasted less than an hour.

Bloomington scored the games only run in the bottom of the sixth when Brad Goosby reached first on an error, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Tom Clemens single to center field.

Three knotted in LPGA golf

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — JoAnne Carner, Kathy Whitworth, Sandra Post and Kathy Martin led the field today into the second round of the $50,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Bloomington Bicentennial Classic.

They fired three-under-par 68s Friday in the first round of the 54 hole tourney at Lake Monroe Golf Club.

"Everything went into the hole," Miss Martin bubbled, noting her 27 putts.

Tourney favorite Judy Rankin had a par 71. Mrs. Rankin, who has played 16 straight days of golf, is determined not to take a rest until she breaks the $100,000 mark in season winnings. A third place or better here will do it.

Kathy Ahern and Laura Baugh each fired a 69. Tied with 70s were Pat Bradley, who played the back side first and was five under par; Betty Burfeindt, Gloria Ehret and Dot Germain.

Therese Hession, 18, Indianapolis, one of six amateurs invited to compete, also posted a 70. The Southern Methodist University freshman had the best round she's ever scored in competition.

Muhammad Ali's blood clots superficial

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Kicks by Antonio Inoki in a much-criticized World Martial Arts match in Japan last week have sent heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali to a hospital with blood clots in his legs.

But the blood clots, which had greatly alarmed Ali's followers when he was hospitalized Thursday, were deemed to be superficial Friday by the 34-year-old champion's physician.

Ali, 34, who earned $6 million and a draw in the 15-round match that many called a "puton," was taken to St. John's Hospital after arriving in Los Angeles to confer with Columbia Pictures officials on an upcoming movie, "The Greatest."

Businessman Snubs Smokers As Customers and Employees

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer
SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Oscar Austad will even give a smoker a good deal on a set of golf clubs. But light up and the deal's off.

With the chutzpah that comes with running his own business, Austad will turn away a customer who wants to smoke while shopping for a $400 set of clubs.

This militancy about smoking has been part of the Austad Co. policy ever since the former insurance adjuster and nongolfer began stocking a few clubs in his garage 13 years ago.

"I don't know if we've ever lost any business because of it. I don't care if we do," said a relaxed 54-year-old Austad from behind a cluttered desk.

His casual style (he favors recreation shoes and golf shirts) gives no hint of the phenomenal success he has become. Four conglomerates listed on the New York Stock Exchange have made "multimillion-dollar" offers for the company, which registered $9 million in sales in 1975 and looks for $12 million this year.

Last year business was up 58 per cent while the rest of the industry felt a slump.

The air in his warehouse, the biggest golf distributing warehouse in the country, is hospital fresh. Not one cigarette has been lit inside.

A yield-shaped sign on the glass door reads, "Lungs at work — no smoking" and in the foyer is the last stray visitor will see until he comes out again.

When Austad hired each of his 75 employees, he asked whether they smoked, and if they could abstain four hours. He does not permit smoking even on coffee breaks or anywhere on the 10-acre grounds, so a smoker has to sneak off at lunch time.

He has a standing $100 bonus offer to any employee who will quit smoking for a year. So far, one man has taken him up on it.

"Even as a kid I used to resent sitting in a room where people were blowing smoke in my face." His father smoked a cigar, which he hated. And when he was 9 his mother pulled him aside and made him promise not to smoke or drink. He did, and it was enough to get him through the temptations of the teen years.

In two terms as Republican state senator, Austad pushed through a law banning smoking in 10 public places such as concert halls and buses.

He predicts that the rights of nonsmokers will prevail and that eventually "smoking will be indulged in by consenting adults in private."

Even at the legislature, Austad pushed golf clubs. He passed out his catalog to fellow legislators, one of whom was

TEES GALORE—Oscar Austad, Sioux Falls, S.D., owner of the country's biggest golf equipment distributorship, clutches hundreds of golf tees in his warehouse. Austad is a local legend for his multimillion-dollar success and his no-smoking policy at work.

Austad's business is almost as simple as his no-smoking dictum. No advertising, no salesmen. He mails 500,000 catalogs, designed by himself, to people who ask for them. All orders are shipped out the same day they arrive.

By his own admission, Austad is a "lousy" golfer, shooting 60 for nine holes. He thinks golf takes too long and prefers tennis.

After mishap on Old Springfield Road

Bicyclist in 'fair' condition

A six-year-old Fayette County youth is listed in "fair" condition in a Columbus hospital after having been involved in a Friday morning accident on the Old Springfield Road.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that Daniel E. Reading, 6, of 2632 Old Springfield Road, was riding his bicycle north along the Old Springfield Road at 10:15 a.m. Friday when the accident occurred.

A car driven by David S. Gerber, 17, of 2176 Old Springfield Road, was also northbound on the road, and in the process of passing the young bicyclist, the youth apparently swerved to the left and collided with the vehicle.

The youth propelled outward after impact. The accident occurred about a tenth of a mile south of the Washington-Waterloo Road. The car was moderately damaged in the accident, while the bicycle received slight damage. The Reading youth is listed in "fair" condition at Children's Hospital, Columbus.

Washington C.H. police officers investigated a 12:10 p.m. Friday accident on W. Court Street in which a Fayette County woman was charged with failing to yield to an oncoming vehicle.

A car driven by Viola M. Frazier, 55, of 1514 Ohio 41-S, was in the process of exiting from the Convenient Food Mart store parking lot on W. Court Street when she reportedly struck a car traveling east on W. Court Street.

The second car was driven by Ronna T. Sowders, 26, of 1019 Rawlings St., and it sustained moderate damage. Ms. Frazier, whose car was slightly damaged, was cited for failing to yield to an oncoming vehicle.

It was mostly cloudy in the southern and central counties this morning and clear to partly cloudy in the north, with a few scattered showers reported in the central part of the state and some lightning in the Zanesville area early this morning.

Temperatures continued mild and around sunrise ranged from the 50s in the clear areas to the 60s in the cloudy parts of the state. A few scattered showers or thundershowers will occur over the southern and central counties today. This should have only a slight affect on any outdoor activity. Periods of sunshine and cloudiness will prevail over the north.
